Who we are

Who is providing this notice?

This privacy notice is provided by Amicus Lending.

What we do

How does Amicus Lending protect my personal information?

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings.

How does Amicus Lending collect my personal information?

We collect your personal information, for example, when you

- submit a loan application or share contact or account information
- provide financial information or employment information
- arrange payments or update information on your account

We also collect your personal information from credit reporting agencies, financial companies, service providers and other companies.

Why can't I limit all sharing?

Federal law gives you the right to limit only

- sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes—information about your creditworthiness
- affiliates from using your information to market to you
- sharing for nonaffiliates to market to you

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing. See below for more information.

What happens when I limit sharing for an account I hold jointly with someone else?

Your choice will apply to everyone on your account.
